THE CARRIER'S ADDRESS

TO THE PATRONS OF THE

"ADAMS SENTINEL,"

JANUARY 1st, 1858.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!—What a terrible course
The sprite of the Old Year has run!
What blights he has left—what joys he has crush'd,
In his race to the "unknown bourne."

Yet, still, 'tis better to smile as we sing
The dirge of his ruthless career;
In eternity now, from his potent power,
We have nought but the memory to fear.

But first, let us say (as in justice we should)
To the state of the times we're a martyr,
For what we did cheerfully last year for a dime,
This year we must charge you a Quarter.

Our reasons you ask for this extra charge?
Why the matter's as clear as 'tis splendid:
Our Patrons must 'give to the Devil his due,'
Or his function will soon be suspended.

The "SENTINEL'S" pages, more than usual, last year,
Were filled with startling accounts
Of murder, and crimes, of riots and brawl,
And forgeries in heavy amounts.

The gods on earth, it would seem, had frowned.
And made men med to destroy them—
Bated their hearts with Avarice and Lust,
And sent Passion & Pride to employ them.

But to tinge this page with a deeper dye,
A Judicial decree must appear;
Which most among the deeds of shame,
Will memorize the year.

A man was found of American birth,
To stand on her forum, and declare
By the compact of State, a man of dark skin
Has no rights from his country to share!

The next thing of note which claims our pen,
Is the Atlantic speculation;
That grand old rope of iron and hemp,
Which didn't "link nation to nation."

Of its failure there were theories plenty,
But the fact of it seems to be this:
The "play-out" machine was imperfect,
And the wire broke loose from the ship.

But mishaps, 'tis said, never come single,
An adage we believe to be true—
While the world seeks rest from one trouble,
Another one breaks on its view.

The Panic—and a panic it was—
A grand, universal stampede
Of capitalists, brokers and bankers,
And all of god Mammon's creed.

What a crash there was 'mong the favor'd,
Speculation assumed every hue,
Manufacturers reduced down the wages,
And Wall-street lights burned blue.

"A truce! a truce!" was vainly cried,
The demons resolved in convention,
To hunt to the death each "Bear and Bull,"
And wave the black flag "Suspension."

To drag from the vaults of each good bank,
The "foundation of all circulation."
To force them, in short, to fight 'neath their flag,
Or sink into "liquidation."

A compromise at length was made
'Twixt the Banks and Legislatures,
The effect of which is yet to be tried
On the complexed affairs of creatures.

Meanwhile our National Congress
Had fixed on a leisure day,
To look at the state of their cash,
And mend the leaks in the "Treasury."

And such was the state of things,
The "Box" was so lean and lank,
That even Democrats, 'tis said,
Talked of a "National Bank."

Shade of immortal Jackson, forbid!
What? ruin (!) the Country again?
Or what is more, disjoint the party,
With such a powerful strain.

Nor National Bank, nor Protective Tariff
The tangle could never undo,
So they issued Constitutional (!) bills
For twenty millions, or so.

And thus the play came to a close,
To resume again in the Spring,
When in addition to the above,
'Twill close with a splendid drop scene.

The Fall campaign, which about this time
Stirred the numerous politicians,
Pass'd off with the usual amount
Of "prayers" and maledictions.

'Tis needless to say, the Democrats won—
Of course, by the old hocus-pocus,
Which is only found, at the present day,
Among scrupulous (?) Locofocos.

Our own Old Adams played us a trick,
The like of which never man saw—
Which cut to the hearts of "Harry Clay Whigs,"
Like a newly-invented hand-saw.

But the mischief is done and completed!
Who then could have been the defiler?
Was it the zeal of the County Committee,
Or the Editor of the Compiler?

Yet, with all her mishaps and misfortune,
In one thing the country is bless'd,
With all foreign lands and dominions
Her relations are counted the best.

'Tis true haughty Spain, very lately,
Has made some strange demands,
Which the President says, in his Message,
Results from some unsettled claims.

On our borders things don't look so quiet,
The "Saints," bless your soul, have rebell'd,
But the President promptly sent troops out,
And the riot, we hope, will be quell'd.

Thus having discoursed about things at home,
'Twould please us to make some mention
Of the India War, and some other things,
Which at present are attracting attention.

But time compels us to end our song,
Which we do, with the well-meant prayer,
That all and each of our patrons and friends
Will enjoy the coming NEW-YEAR.

Choice Poetry.

Scatter the Germs of the Beautiful.

Scatter the germs of the beautiful!
By the wayside let them fall,
That the rose may spring by the cottage gate,
And the vine on the garden wall;
Cover the rough and the rude of earth
With a veil of leaves and flowers
And mark with the opening bud and cup
The march of summer hours.

Scatter the germs of the beautiful
In the holy shrine of home;
Let the pure, and the fair, and the graceful there
In their loveliest lustre come;
Leave not a trace of deformity
In the temple of the heart.
But gather about its hearth the gems
Of Nature and of Art.

Scatter the germs of the beautiful
In the temples of our God—
The God who starred the uplifted sky,
And flowered the trampled sod,
When he built a temple for himself,
And a home for his priestly race,
He reared each arch in symmetry,
And carved each line in grace.

Scatter the germs of the beautiful
In the depths of the human soul:
They shall bud and blossom, and bear the fruit
While the endless ages roll:
Plant with the flowers of charity
The portals of the tomb,
And the fair and the pure about thy path
In Paradise shall bloom!

Miscellaneous.

Can I Help You?

In the language of an unknown writer, appropriate and pertinent to the times, is the following:—

'Can I help you? Just say the word" There speaks the whole-souled, whole-hearted man,—the man whose very shadow is worth more than the body, soul and estate, personal and spiritual, of two thirds of our human race bearing the name. How he lifts the despanding spirit of his brother in trouble. All day he had met with cold eyes, cold smiles, cold words, cold bows, and cold sympathy. Men fly from him because they heard he was unfortunate; and—be a villain, a thief, a murderer, says the world in action, but don't be unfortunate. I'll lend you ten thousand if you are worth fifty; if you're unfortunate—I'm very poor myself—would help you—could have done so three days ago, or three hours ago—but positively haven't got three cents, nor shan't be in possession of that amount while—your misfortune lasts. If your old aunt dies, or your old uncle, or in fact anybody who can choose to leave you a fortune, why just call upon me; I'll manage to have a little change on hand.

But, look! yonder comes a broad-shouldered, frank browed man, who meets his poor brother with a hearty slap on the shoulder, and Can I help you? just say the word. Don't be afraid now; what's your trouble? Out with it, and if you'd like a little cash just say so. Don't be down cast; what if you have failed in your expectations once, twice, or thrice? Haven't some of our most successful merchants done the same thing? And where would they have been if they hadn't found friends. Come, what do you want—how much?—He don't clap his hands in his pockets with a Styx-like frown that says as plainly as if he had bawled it out in your ear, no entrance here. He is not one of those dyspeptic, cross-grained, surly, monied machines that squeezes a sixpence till it squeals, and reads a newspaper with a greedy voracious eagerness, for fear he should not get his two cents worth. He lives for something else, that man, than gain. His passport to heaven is written on his face, his religion on the hearts of the downcast and sorrowing, in the homes he has made happy by his benevolence.

Can I help you? Write the words in golden letters, for they are only heard on rare occasions. The sneer, the scorn, the doubt, the refusal—they come with every nightfall and sun-rising. Niggards grow like muskrooms, but angels are scarce.—Niggards can never look beyond themselves, their own comfort—their own convenience; no matter who starves next door, they scatter curses in discouragement, and blight over, God only knows, how many gentle hearts. They never say, "Can I help him?" but "he's down, let's kick him."

But the angelic ministry of those helpers of humanity, men who believe they were intrusted with powers the gods might envy, that they might be used to some good purpose, what shall we say to them? how give them the burning praise they merit?—Good, whole-souled, generous man, the angels and God himself smiles approval when with beaming eyes, and hopeful words, you said to the dispirited brother, "Can I help you?"

☞Be contented and thankful; a cheerful spirit makes labor light, sleep sweet, and all around cheerful.

☞Why is an overloaded gun like an office-holder? Because it kicks mightily when it is discharged.

Anxious for his Safety.

We were a good deal amused the other day at a circumstance which occurred in one of the cars of the New York and Erie Railroad. It was witnessed by a friend whom no 'good thing' ever escapes, and who thus describes it:

'On a seat two or three 'removes' from me, sat a smart Yankee-looking woman, with a dashing new silk gown, and a new bonnet set jauntily upon her head; and beside her, looking out of the window, and every now and then thrusting out his head, sat a man, of a somewhat foreign air and manner.

'The woman watched him with every appearance of interest, and at last said to him:

'Do you not see that handbill there, telling you not to put your arms and head out of the car windows?'

'The man made no reply, save to fix upon the speaker a pair of pale, watery blue eyes; and presently out went his head again, and half his body, from the car-window.

'Do you understand English?' asked the woman.

'Yaw,' was the reply.

'Then why don't you keep your head out of the window?'

'There was no reply, of any kind, to this appeal.

'At length he put out his head a third time, just as the cars were passing a long wooden bridge. The lady started back, and once more exclaimed:

'Do you understand English?'

'Y-a-w—yaw!'

'Then why don't you keep your head out of the window? Want to get killed?'

'No response. And a fourth time he narrowly escaped 'collision' with some passing object.

'The woman could 'stand it' no longer: 'Why don't you keep your head out of the window? The next thing you know, your head will be smashed into a jelly, and your brains will be all over my new silk dress—that is if you've got any—and I don't much believe you have!'

'We all had mistaken the object of the woman's solicitude; which at first seemed to be a tender regard for the safety of her fellow passenger; but when the true meaning leaked out,' coupled with so very equivocal compliment to his intelligence, a laugh was heard in the car that drowned the roaring of the wheels.'

Legal.

Judge Peters was one of the Judges of the Superior Court of Connecticut, and was not considered the best authority in points of law. Mr. H——, a well-known practitioner, who has a nervous twitching of the muscles of his face, was pleading before him in an important cause, and the Judge, apparently not heeding the lawyer, was playing with a little dog which had come up by his side on the platform. In the course of his remarks the lawyer stated the law applying to one of the important points of his case: the Judge stopped playing with the dog, and lifting up his head, said,

'Why Mr. H——, I didn't know there was any such law.'

To which H——, while looking particularly serious, and his face beginning to twitch, immediately replied, 'I didn't suppose your honor did'

The whole audience was convulsed with suppressed laughter, considering it a palpable hit.

Consequences.

A gentleman having advertised for a servant, a black man applied for the situation. The old gentleman inquired of him if he understood consequences—"because if you do not you will not suit me." Sambo requested him to explain himself, as he did not know as he exactly understood the meaning of the term. "Why," said the gentleman "if I tell you to set the dinner table, I shall expect you to lay the cloth, put on the dishes, the sauce, &c., as a necessary consequence, without me being under the necessity of mentioning every item to be placed on the table."—"O! yes," said Sambo, "if that's what you call consequences I shall try to suit you."

Accordingly Sambo was employed, and suited the old man very well—minding to carry out consequences in every particular. At length the old man was taken ill, and Sambo was sent in haste for the doctor.—Sambo staid a long time, but at length arrived not only with the doctor, but the lawyer to write the will, the undertaker to take the dimensions of the coffin, and the grave digger to dig the grave, &c.

"Why, Sambo," said the old gentleman—"I merely sent you for the doctor, and why do you bring all these people here?"

"Because," said Sambo, 'you told me I must always consider consequences, and I thought these men (pointing to the men of law and death) the necessary consequences of having the doctor."

ASKING TOO MUCH.—A young couple were sitting together in a romantic spot, when the following dialogue took place:

"My dear, if the sacrifice of my life would please thee, most gladly would I lay it down at thy feet."

"Oh, sir, you are too kind. But it just reminds me that I wish you would quit using tobacco."

"Can't think of such a thing—it's a habit to which I am wedded."

"Very well, sir, this is the way you lay down your life for me; and as you are already "wedded" to tobacco, I'll take good care that you are never wedded to me; as it would be bigamy."

Secret Prayer Rewarded Openly.

When Jacob and Esau met—on one side the shaggy chieftain, with his four hundred sword-men and on the other side the limping shepherd with his caravan of children and sheep—a flock of sheep approaching a band of wolves; when the patriarch took his band and stepped forward to meet the embattled company, and the anxious retinue awaited the issue; they saw the tear start into the rough huntsman's eye—they saw his brawny arms around Jacob's neck—they saw in the red savage a sudden and unlooked-for brother. They saw the result, but they had not seen the prelude which led to it. They had not viewed his agony and heard his prayer; and though they had noticed the halting limb, they saw the patriarch, the husband, and the father; but they knew not that he was a prince with God, and had gained Esau's heart from Him who has all hearts in his hand. The halting thigh and the pacified foe were obvious; but the wrestling over night was unknown. The reward was open, but the prayer was secret.

The Pentateuch Confirmed.—A work has recently been published in London, says the New York Christian Advocate, by an accomplished Egyptian scholar, who, in examining Egyptian records, has found traces of a history parallel to that written by Moses. He finds James mentioned five times, Moses twice, and Batak, son of Zippor, at a place called Huzoth; that a people of whom Moses was a leader, marched toward Palestine by the way of Migdol and Zoar; that they were connected with the names of Midia and Aram; that there was a contest at a place of a great water flood; that a royal or noble youth meets a sudden and mysterious death, and that a royal order is immediately issued for the hasty departure of a people for their feast of 'passing the dead,' and that miracles are named as being performed by their leader, in Lower Egypt.

Value of a Testament.

There is at least one instance of a testament purchased at New Orleans previous to the Mexican War, which not only saved the life of the possessor, but was in this way: A young Illinois girl purchased a small testament for four dozen of eggs at three cents per dozen; and when her brother was about to start for Mexico as a volunteer, she put it into his pocket.—There it remained, wrapped in the same paper and same pocket, until the Battle of Buena Vista, when the owner received a wound through the testament, which broke the force of the bullet, which lodged in his breast and sent him to the hospital. There he read his book; and when last seen by the writer, he was in an Illinois college preparing for the pulpit, or rather for a missionary field in the Methodist Church.

☞A celebrated writer says, the best thing to give your enemy is forgiveness; to your opponent, tolerance; to a friend, your heart; to your child, a good example; to a father, deference; to your mother, conduct that will make her proud of you; to yourself, respect; to all men, charity.

☞Time! how swiftly is it gliding away, yet how few there are who appreciate it.—How many are idling the golden hours away. "O, that I could recall my days that have passed away, that I might improve them in seeking knowledge," says the ignorant old man who has spent his days in idleness.

☞Great men need care little for the abuse of the malignant. It may defile them for a time, but will fall from their characters like mud thrown by a boor against the glorious temple.

☞A clerk on a steamer, while collecting fare, came to an Irish lady seated on a chest on the deck, while around her were six small children, including one at the breast.

'I'll take your fare, my good woman.'

'An sure,' said the woman, 'an' ye could me I might coom—didn't I tell ye my husband was sick, an' I must get to him with the childer.'

'Yes,' said George, 'but there was but one child then—where did you get these six?'

Irish lady: 'Sure an' I got them all where I got one; wheer's the har-r-m?'

The woman and children were booked as dead heads.

☞Friend Merk had a very good horse and a very poor one. When seen riding the latter it turned out that his better half had taken the good one.

"What," said a bantering bachelor, "how comes it that you let your wife ride the better horse?"

The only reply was, "Friend, when thee beest married thee'll know."

☞A little boy, at his father's funeral, observed a child of one of the neighbors crying bitterly, doubtless in sympathy with his little friend. This roused the orphan boy, who exclaimed, "You needn't cry—this ain't none of your funerals!"

☞The editress of the Lancaster Literary Gazette, says she would as soon nestle her nose in a rat's nest of tow, as to allow a man to kiss her. Ain't she saucy, though?

☞A Doctor up town gave the following prescription for a sick lady a few days since:

"A new bonnet, a cashmere shawl, and a pair of gaiter boots!" The lady recovered immediately.

Office Rejected.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer, in speaking of the new officers of the House, says:

'The discipline of party compels the officials of the House to make a clean sweep in their appointments and, not one of them has been left a free agent. In the case of the doorkeeper, the whole matter is in the hands of a committee, of which a member from Virginia is the head, which distributes the various positions nominally in his gift, without reference to him. A curious circumstance, worth relating, is told in this connection, as having occurred a day or two ago. The chairman of this committee brought a stalwart Irishman to the capitol, to introduce him to his new station and its former occupant, whom he requested to explain to him his duties. The new comer looked at the man he was about to displace, and discovered that he was a cripple. On asking him how he had become thus mutilated, he was told that he was shot and cut 'to pieces' in the battle of Buena Vista, left for dead on the field, and only recovered to find himself hopelessly maimed for life. The generous hearted fellow looked first at one and then the other, and finally blurted out, as he turned on his heel—'If this man's place is the only one you have got for me, I'll not have it at all.'

Hadn't Called Yet.

In one of his visits Sir John Stevenson had taken private apartments for himself and servant—an unadulterated specimen of the verdant isle. Being much engaged on some musical compositions preparing for the press, and finding his time much taken up by morning visitors, he took the precaution one day of denying himself, and thus delivered orders to that effect:—'Now Patrick, remember I'm going to be particularly occupied for the next two hours, and I won't be at home, mind, if the Bishop of London calls.' 'Very well, your honor; I'll take care,' replied the obedient servant attendant, as he closed the door. Sir John now sat down to his pianoforte, and was soon immersed in the interest of his occupation, when, in about ten minutes, he had reason to congratulate himself upon having provided against intrusion, for a loud knock at the street door proclaimed the usual routine of idlers. What, then, was his surprise and mortification when he saw his room door flung open, and Pat, with his usual smile of welcome, ushering in three gentlemen! After the simple fellow had placed chairs for the visitors, a quick glance from his master's eye told him that he had somehow committed himself, but the organ of potato-ism was too prominently developed to allow him to comprehend exactly how, yet sorewdly suspecting that Sir John's evident vexation was connected with his admission of the present visitors, and with a view to deprecate his displeasure, and prove to his master that he had not infringed the particular order he had received from him, with much significance of look, & force of emphasis, he said—'Plaze, Sir John, the Bishop of London hasn't called yet.'—Mrs. Matthews' Miscellanies.

Just Saved Himself.—A pious old gentleman, one of the salt of the earth sort; went out into the field to catch a mare that was wont to bear him to town. He moved on in the most approved mode. He shook a measure of corn at her to delude her into the belief that she was to get it; but she was not to be deceived by any such specious act. She would come nigh and then dash off again, until the good man was fretted very badly. At last he got her in the corner among some briars, and made a dash at her, when she bounded over the wall and left him sprawling among the bushes.—His Christian fortitude gave way at this, and gathering himself up, he cried, 'Oh, hell.' The ejaculation had passed his lips before the thought, but immediately conscious of his wickedness, he said—'elujah!' and translated the profane word into a note of triumph.—Boston Evening Gazette.

☞A lady in town chances to be unfortunate in the opinion of some of her neighbors. A physician has of late been necessitated to visit her family rather frequently. There being no hitching-post before the lady's own door, the doctor several times fastened his horse to a post in front of a neighbor's residence. This he was shortly warned not to do again. So, when next the Æsculapius made his appearance, he asked the lady, who was at one of the windows of the house, where he should "tie up." "Let the horse stand," was the prompt reply—"the neighbors will watch it for you!" Enough of those same neighbors heard the complimentary remark—we hope it did them good.

☞A young Irish servant girl, coming from Albany recently in one of the night steamer, had the ill-luck to lose the recommendation which had been given to her on leaving her last place. An Irishman, on learning the cause of her distress, and being able to write, gave her the following, which she presented to a friend of ours:—'This is to sa, that katy o'bine had a good character when she left albeny but she lost it on beord the vessel coming down from albeny.'

☞It is not great wealth nor high station which makes a man happy. Many of the most wretched beings on earth have both. But it is a radiant, sunny spirit, which knows how to bear little trials and to enjoy little comforts, and which thus extracts happiness from every incident of life.

News from Nicaragua.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27, 10 P. M.—The California mail steamer Northern Light has arrived, bringing $2,020,946 in specie.

Among the passengers by the Northern Light is Gen. Wm. Walker, Prisoner on parole. Walker had captured Fort Castillo and four steamers, when he himself and one hundred and fifty of his men were captured by Commodore Paulding, of the frigate Wabash. The men were sent in the Saratoga to Norfolk, and Gen. Walker has been permitted to proceed to New York on parole.

The Lake and river steamers were handed over to Garrison and Morgan.

Walker's force was captured by three hundred and fifty men, landed from the frigate Wabash.

Col. Anderson and fifty Americans still hold Fort Castillo and the River San Juan. They had three months' provisions, six pieces of artillery, and an abundance of ammunition. The Costa Ricans had sent four hundred men against them.

Senor Lerines is elected president of Nicaragua.

Active preparations were being made in Nicaragua for an energetic war against Costa Rica.

Arrival of Walker at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec 24th.—Gen. Walker arrived here this evening, accompanied by Marshal Rynders, T. F. Meagher and Malcolm Campbell. He was received with cheers by a large concourse of people as he entered his quarters at Brown's Hotel.

Shortly after Marshal Rynders, with General Walker, repaired to the State Department, when the former stated to Mr. Cass that he had received a communication from Com. Paulding, saying that he had arrested Walker for carrying on an unlawful military expedition against Nicaragua. That Walker had promised him, on his honor, to surrender himself to him, (Rynders,) as marshal of the Southern district of New York, on his arrival in that city.—That Walker has done so, and he (Rynders) had accompanied Walker to Washington to ascertain the views of the government.

Mr. Cass replied that the executive department of the government did not recognize Gen Walker as a prisoner, and that he had no directions to give concerning him, and that it was only through the judiciary that he could be lawfully held in custody to answer any charges which may be brought against him. Marshal Rynders then informed Walker that he had no further authority to detain him. Both then withdrew.

Important from Mexico.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 23.—The steamship Tennessee has arrived here with the semi-monthly mail from Mexico, and brings dates from the city of Mexico of the 17th instant. The country was again in an agitated condition, caused by a new revolutionary movement designed to dissolve the Congress, and to over throw the recent constitution, besides declaring Comonfort dictator of Mexico and granting him extraordinary powers. This revolutionary movement was first pronounced by the garrison at Tacubo, near the city of Mexico. Their example was immediately followed by the garrison at Vera Cruz, and it was supposed that the rest would take a similar position on hearing of the outbreak.

Later advices from Yucatan are also furnished. The country continued distracted by civil war. Sisal, which, at the previous dates, was in the possession of the Campeachy troops and in a state of blockade, had been captured by the revolutionists; but it was again retaken by the former, and a strong force of troops was stationed at that point to defend it from further assaults.

A Clergyman on Fire in the Pulpit.

Among the decorations of St. James (Episcopal) Church at Greenfield, on Christmas Eve, was a large and beautiful 'Star in the East,' set some forty feet above the pulpit, and lighted by a fluid lamp.—In the midst of Rev. Mr. Flint's sermon the star took fire, the overgenous blazing up in a very startling manner. Seeing that the star could not be immediately reached, and unwilling to lose his congregation, Mr. Flint continued his discourse, when suddenly the burning mass gave way and fell upon the reverend gentleman, the fluid lamp striking him on the back, and scattering the blazing fluid in all directions. Fortunately the fire was extinguished before it had done any damage, and Mr. Flint was unhurt. His escape is remarkable.—Springfield Republican, December 28th.

Saved by her Hoops.—A young Miss, of fourteen summers, was indulging in the delightful sport of skating on a small water privilege about one mile out of the city, one day last week, and the ice gave away where the water was twelve feet deep, and in she went, but being surrounded by a most fashionable array of hoops, which made a wide ring around her on the neighboring ice, she was saved from sinking far below the waist. Another girl came to her rescue, and she was saved. Had it not been for the hoops her chances would have been very poor.—Manchester (N. H.) Mirror.

Fire at Marion, Alabama.

AUGUSTA, (GA.) Dec. 27.—Selma papers announce that a fire at Marion, Alabama, had destroyed a whole block, including the Perry House, printing and law offices, drug, book, and merchants' stores. Loss fifty thousand dollars.

A Mouse in a Child's Stomach.—A few days ago a child named Tomlinson, of Green Lane, Sullcouts, N. Y., died after a lingering illness. It appeared that, in May last, the child passed a full grown mouse, minus its head. The mouse had run down the child's throat while playing in a field near Stone Ferry, where its parents then resided. After that time the child continued ailing more or less until its death, the immediate cause of which was supposed to have been diarrhœa.

Civil War Raging—Violence & Bloodshed.

St. Louis, Dec. 20th.—Kansas dates to the 24th, received by the Democrat, say that civil war is raging in Bourbon county. Several conflicts have occurred between the free State and pro-slavery men, and a number of prisoners have been taken on both sides. The United States Marshal, with a force of 80 men, demanded the surrender of the free State party, but the demand was answered by a volley of musket balls.

The fire was returned, and the fight lasted for an hour, when the pro-slavery men retreated, with the loss of one killed and two mortally wounded. The Marshal was dangerously injured.

General Lane was entrenched at Sugar Mound, and was determined to fight the dragoons if attacked. A battle was regarded as inevitable.

Exciting debates had occurred in the Lawrence Free State Convention. The committee on resolutions had presented three reports. The majority report disapproves of voting for State officers; the first minority report recommends the nomination of a full State ticket, and the second recommends a participation in the election for the purpose of destroying the Lecompton constitution. That no man be nominated who refuses to pledge himself to crush it. That the Topeka constitution be submitted to the people, and that loyalty to that instrument be made the test of fealty to the free State party. That the Legislature repeal the present code of laws, &c. The most radical revolutionary speeches were made.

Gen. Denver had given up the territorial arms to the military.

Various rumors were in circulation relative to Fort Scott, but none of an authentic character.

Important from Washington.

The Mormons—Fresh Despatches—Orders of the Mormons to Destroy all Government Property.

By far the most important portion of the despatches sent by Col. Johnson, is embraced in the following order issued by D. U. Wells, commander of the Mormon troops:

"Headquarters Eastern Expedition,
Camp near Cache Cave, Oct 4, 1857

"Major Joseph Taylor—You will proceed with all possible despatch, without injuring your animals, to the Oregon road, near the head of Bear river, north by east of this place. Take close and correct observations of the country on your route. When you approach the road, send scouts ahead to ascertain if the invading troops have passed that way. If they have passed, take a concealed route and get ahead of them. Express to Col. Benton, who is now on that road, and in the vicinity of the troops, and effect a junction with him, so as to operate in concert. On ascertaining the locality or route of the troops, proceed at once to annoy them in every possible way. Use every exertion to stampede their animals and set fire to their trains. Burn the whole country before them and on their flanks. Keep them from sleeping by night surprises. Blockade the road by felling trees, or destroying river fords where you can. Watch for opportunities to set fire to the grass on their windward so as, if possible, to envelope their trains. Leave no grass before them that can be burned.

"Keep your men concealed as much as possible, and guard against surprise.—Keep scouts out at all times, and communication open with Col. Benton, Maj. McAllister, and O. P. Rockwell, who are operating in the same way. Keep me advised daily of your movements, and every step the troops take and in what direction.—God bless you and give you success. Your brother in Christ, DANIEL U WELLS

"P. S.—If the troops have not passed, or have turned in this direction, follow in their rear, and continue to annoy them, burning any trains they may leave. Take no life, but destroy their trains, and stampede or drive away their animals at every opportunity. D. U. W."

These orders were found in the possession of Joseph Taylor, to whom they were addressed, when he was captured by a detachment of Col. Alexander's forces.

The Indians in Utah.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The Indian Bureau have received official information denying the truth of the reports that the dissatisfaction of the Indians in the Utah Territory created by the Mormons had been communicated to the Indians on the border of California, and especially those in the Southern portion of that State. All remained quiet, and, so far as appearances are concerned, there was no reason to anticipate a different state of things.

Private letters from California state that two regiment of volunteers were ready at the tap of the drum to advance against the Mormons, and ten more regiments could be mustered in less than sixty days for the same service.

Remarkable Endurance in a Pig.—We learn from the Adler, that in removing a straw-stack upon the farm of Nathaniel Kalbach, in Penn township, Berks co., on the 12th ult., an old sow and three pigs, that had been missed for eleven weeks, were found under the straw. The old sow was still living, and had nearly eaten up two of the pigs—the third one appeared to have been not long dead. The old one weighed 200 pounds at the time she was missed; when found she was nothing but hide and bones, and did not weigh more than about 50 pounds. She was unable to eat at first, but after some lard had been forced down her throat, she appeared to gain strength, and began to take a little food.—Since then she has been daily regaining her lost substance. During the eleven weeks confinement, she had kept herself alive by eating two pigs, and, by way of variety, straw. She had eaten a hole in the straw large enough to turn around in. The sow belonged to Mr. Nathaniel Kalbach, and the pigs to Mr. Nicholas Hang.

THE ADAMS SENTINEL.

GETTYSBURG:

MONDAY, JAN. 4, 1858.

☞An Apprentice to the Printing business is wanted at this Office.

Death of John B. M'Pherson, Esq.

It becomes our painful duty to announce the death, early this morning, of our respected fellow-citizen, JOHN B. M'PHERSON, Esq., Cashier of the Bank of Gettysburg, a situation he has retained ever since the establishment of that Institution in 1812—more than forty years. He was in his 69th year. His health has been feeble for a considerable time, and he sank gradually and peacefully to his rest, leaving a reputation behind him, which is a pleasant inheritance to his children. Of stern, unbending integrity, and of exemplary moral character, warm in his friendships, closely attentive and correct in all his business transactions, few men have left us who possessed more of the confidence of the community than did the deceased. We have been warm and intimate friends for many years, and it became us not, to let his departure pass without this our slight tribute to his worth.

Railroad Opening.

Wednesday next has been fixed upon by the Board of Directors of the Gettysburg Railroad Company, for a formal opening of the Road for business, from Oxford to Hanover. On and after that time, passenger trains will run over the Road regularly.—The public generally are invited to be present on the occasion, and take a ride over the Road. The train will leave Oxford on that day about noon.

New Year's Day.

Was a splendid day for the season, and from the liveliness of our streets there must have been general enjoyment. The new Brass Band was out during the afternoon, and "discoursed sweet music." This will be a considerable addition to the interest of our public assemblages.

The "Blues" are to be out on Friday, with the Band, to celebrate the anniversary of the Battle of New Orleans—commonly called "Jackson's Victory."

Another Fire in York.

Five barns and one stable, were burned in York early on Friday morning last, fired by an incendiary. Jacob Weiser lost two barns and a stable, Wm. Sayers a barn, Henry Small a barn, and Jacob May a barn. There was a good deal of grain, hay, and straw in the barns. Three valuable cows were burnt, as also wagons, harness, sleighs, &c. The loss is a very heavy one above the insurances.

☞The Philadelphia Banks are understood to be considering the expediency of a speedy resumption of specie payments.—The New York and New England banks having resumed, and the panic having entirely subsided, we can see no objection to an immediate resumption by the banks of this State. It is true they will not be able to do much new business while the pressure continues, but that is no argument against resuming. The panic being over, it seems to us the banks could do more business as specie paying than in a state of suspension, and in this view we are in favor of a speedy resumption.

☞The President and the Secretary of State appear to be quite engrossed by the questions which on every side crowd upon them. Kansas, Utah, the fillibusters, and Capt. Paulding require immediate attention, and will, together, create no little agitation in Congress. The session will hardly be resumed to-day before inquiries will be proposed upon some of these subjects, or propositions made in regard to them.

It is not certain that the fillibuster question will not take the lead, inasmuch as the proceedings and resolutions of public meetings in the South-west will be laid before the House, and, at the same time Gen. Quitman's bill for the modification of the neutrality laws be introduced.

Gen. Walker is at liberty to go where he pleases. It is not yet determined that he shall be brought to trial for a violation of the neutrality laws.

Indian Delegations and the President.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Delegations of the Pawnees, Poncas and Pottawatamies, to the number of about thirty, had a formal interview with the President to-day, at the White House. The auditory was large, including a number of ladies, and Secretaries Cobb, Floyd and Thompson. The most interesting feature of the interview was the apparent reconciliation between the chiefs of the Pawnees and Poncas, which tribes have long been hostile to each other. The President, or grand-father as they call him, having persuasively dwelt on the blessings of peace, joined their hands in tokens of friendship, and all seemed to be delighted with the proceedings. The Pottawatamies were in citizens' dress, while their less civilized colleagues were in their grandest attire, and more than usually profuse of paint and feathers.

LECTURE.—On Monday evening, Prof. STOEVER addressed the "Young Men's Christian Association," in the German Reformed Church—Theme: "Washington—a model of self culture." The address was an interesting delineation of the private and public character of the illustrious leader of the Revolutionary armies, and was attentively listened to by a numerous auditory—coming fully up to what was expected from the accomplished Lecturer.

☞The next regular Lecture will be delivered in the Presbyterian Church, on this evening (Monday) at 7 o'clock, by Rev. Mr. ZIEGLER—Theme:—"Counsel to young men."

☞J. M. WALTER, Esq., has been appointed Mercantile Appraiser of Adams county for the ensuing year.

PROPERTY SOLD.—The property of MARY HEWITT, deceased.—about 10 acres—near Bendersville, was sold by the Administrator, ABEL T. WRIGHT, on the 19th ult., to JOHN H. HUTTER, for $679—one half in cash on the 1st of April and the rest in two equal payments with interest.

The Gettysburg Foundry was sold on the 26th ult., by the Assignee, SAMUEL WEAVER, for $2,000. THOMAS WARREN, jr., purchaser.

A Christmas Present.

The Rev. S. H. GIESY, Pastor of the German Reformed Church of Hagerstown, was agreeably surprised on entering his study Christmas morning, to find an elegant suit of clothes and a purse of money, which had been deposited there by the members of his congregation as a Chritsmas gift. The suit was complete, embracing Hat, Coat, Vest, Pants and other necessary wearing apparel, and the whole together, including Purse, amounted in value to $60.

The Scene in the Senate, Dec 22d.—Mr. Fitch warned Mr. Douglas to beware of the fate of Aaron Burr and Martin Van Buren, both of whom had tried to destroy the Democracy, but had only ruined themselves. His speech was plausible and animated, and gave great satisfaction to the Southern Senators.

Judge Douglas replied in his very best style, and made a magnificent speech, defending himself successfully on every point, and predicting that in sixty days his assailants would be driven from their position.—He declared again that if a Constitution was forced upon the people of Kansas against their will civil war was inevitable.—He charged his assailants with seeking to exhaust him by repeated attacks. Hereafter he should not repel individual assailants, but when he saw fit he would fire a raking broadside into the whole group.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Capt. Engle expects to return to the home squadron on the 5th of January. It is positively asserted that Commodore Paulding will be recalled. Many persons have called on Gen. Walker, concerning whose future movements is not known. It is said that he designs asking the government to reinstate him in the position from which he was removed by Com. Paulding.

Spot on the Sun.—A correspondent of the Charleston Courier says:

'A large spot has recently made its appearance on the surface of the sun. It is 40,000 miles in diameter, of rather triangular figure, along the borders of the penumbra, within which are four or five large nuclei, and several smaller ones in the form of dots and lines. The diameter of the spot being five times that of the earth, its surface must be more than six times the whole surface of the earth, or fifteen times greater than the habitable portion of the globe.'

☞On Christmas eve Mrs. Lingard, living at No. 1,020 Crown street, Kensington, went out to purchase some holiday goods for her three children. The two eldest were in bed up stairs, while the third, Florence Elizabeth, 18 months old, was in her cradle and alone down stairs. The mother was absent about half an hour and when she returned her infant was lying on the floor burned black, and in the agonies of death. It seems that a fluid lamp had been left burning upon the table, and the poor child got up in the absence of the mother and dragged the lamp over upon herself.—The table cover was burned. The little sufferer died a few minutes after the return of the patent. The latter was rendered almost frantic by the melancholy occurrence.

Utah Coat of Arms.—It was recently stated at an anti-Mormon meeting that the arms of Utah consist of a bee hive, protected by a lion rampant, at whose feet is the American Eagle, couchant, and badly plucked.

Counting Noses.—The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer says:—"The members of the House generally avoid committing themselves on the great question raised by Mr. DOUGLAS, but their sympathies and intentions will leak out. As the house is composed of one hundred and twenty-eight Democrats to one hundred and six Opposition, it follows that a change of only twelve members is necessary to give the latter a majority. These twelve are there, and will be ready when the hour arrives."

Must Be Read Out.—The Richmond South takes the ground that the offence Senator Douglas has committed against the Democratic party is precisely the same for which Stanton was dismissed, and for which Walker was denounced. It contends, therefore, that if Walker and Stanton have been justly read out of the Democratic church, then Douglas also should be read out.

New Bank.—The Hollidaysburg Register announces that the 'Central Bank of Pennsylvania,' chartered at the last session of the Legislature, is about to go into operation. Its location is Hollidaysburg, Pa.

☞Hon. Henry M Rice and Hon. James Shields were elected United States Senators, by the Legislature of Minnesota, on the 19th ult.

Robbing Himself.—An agent of the American Express company has been arrested at Galena, Ill., on a charge of having robbed his own trunk of $500, and laying the blame on a stranger.

Heavy Robbery.—A Mr. W. H. Emerson, a merchant of Canada West, was robbed on Thursday last, on the cars on the New York Central Railroad, of $14,700.—He was traveling to New York, and had the money in a satchel, which he laid on the seat beside him and covered it with his shawl. At Rome he got out to get some refreshment, and simple like, left the money lying on the seat. On his return, seeing the shawl where he left it, he thought the money was also safe, but after some time he raised the shawl and found the money gone. The satchel was afterwards found in an out-house in Rome, minus the money.

A Division of Texas.—A subdivision of Texas into two or more States, is warmly advocated by some of the leading public journals. No State in the Union has increased in population and wealth more rapidly within the last few years, than Texas. Her estimated population at this time amounts to more than half a million, and when the next census is taken, it will be found sufficient to entitle the State to six or seven representatives in Congress.—Several reasons are given for a division.—The great size of the State, the great dissimilarity of its parts, and the difficulty of constant communication between all parts, and one centre of government, are among the chief of them. The general political reason is the importance of increasing the strength of the South in the U. S. Senate, by the addition of more Senators, to check the predominance of the non-slaveholding States, from the growth of the free soil States in the North west. The subdivision of Texas into not more than four States is provided for by the articles of annexation, and the work will no doubt be consummated in the course of a few years.

Mormons Leaving California.—At the last accounts from California the Mormons in that State were all selling out their lands, houses, goods, &c., and leaving for Salt Lake, pursuant to order from Brigham Young. A California paper says:

The begire of all the Saints in this State is rapidly being accomplished. During the past sixteen days a large proportion of those in San Bernardino have effected sales of their property at ridiculously low prices; houses, lands, crops, furniture, &c., being sold at one third their value. All cattle and animals which cannot be used for draft are sold. We look in vain for any other motive but war, fierce and vindictive, in the sacrifices these people are making.—San Bernardino is a pleasant town and the homes of its citizens are comfortable.—They have neat houses, surrounded by shade trees, gardens, orchards, vineyards and other appliances for comfort and luxury which thought of the future would naturally suggest to a settler. But all these are sacrificed—abandoned—and a whole community, numbering over 2,000 souls, puts itself upon the road in winter, to suffer the privations and hardships which they well know must be suffered in seeking a new home in Salt Lake. In a few weeks San Bernardino will be deserted.

Desperate Attempt at Suicide.—Zachariah Owens, keeper of a public house in Norfolk, Va., made a desperate attempt to commit suicide on Sunday, during a fit of derangement. We gather the following particulars from the Herald:

He drew a six barrel revolver and commenced shooting, apparently at his own person, but although he fired off the six barrels, and even had recourse to a single barrel pistol for another shot, he did not succeed in his object. Finding this only child's play, he procured an axe and dealt himself an ugly gash with it on the forehead. This he found did not give him his quietus, so he rummaged about and found an old hack of a razor, with which he commenced furiously to saw away at his throat. It is evident he had better luck this time, for he cut the wind pipe through to the neck bone, though without separating the jugular vein. This last feat seems to have quieted him effectually, when some person ventured in to give him their assistance and send for a doctor. He was still alive on Tuesday.

Kansas.

The St. Louis Democrat has a letter from Doniphan, Kansas, dated December 17, saying: "A company of fifteen armed ruffians, from Atchison, have just left this city, after having murdered in the public streets, with a shot-gun, Mr. Latham, a free-State citizen of Doniphan. These men came in, in parties of two, about 1 o'clock this afternoon, and, after consulting together, one of them named McVeay, shot at Latham and mortally wounded him, as he was peacefully walking along the street, unarmed and unsuspecting, near the Doniphan House. The buckshot entered the head and blew out his brains. Mr. Latham instantly fell dead. Another member of the Atchison company, after the fatal shot was fired, discharged his rifle in the air.—The party then left town."—States.

Later from Kansas.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28.—Kansas advices of the 22d instant have been received. The constitution with slavery was carried by a large majority, but the returns are meagre.

Gen. Denver has assumed the Governorship and issued an address exhorting the people to appeal to the ballot box for a settlement of the existing difficulties in the Territory. President Calhoun has invited himself and the officers of the Legislature to be present at the counting of the returns. There is nothing authentic from Fort Scott.

The Utah Army.

We learn that the War Department has received information by telegraph from Lieutenant General Scott, announcing the arrival of despatches from the Utah Expedition. The news is very favorable. On the 7th of November Colonels Johnson and Smith and the trains had overtaken Colonel Alexander, and all were marching upon Fort Bridger, which was only sixteen miles distant. The troops were in fine spirits, and there was just enough snow upon the plains to protect the grass from fire. Fort Bridger, we believe, is located one hundred and thirteen miles from Great Salt Lake City.

☞The intelligence from the Utah expedition is copious, and, on the whole, favorable. The command is evidently quite secure from Mormon attack, but they cannot expect to find very comfortable winter quarters. By the last accounts Col. Johnston had sent forward a detachment to occupy Fort Bridger and dislodge the Mormons from that post. We learn that information is received that the Mormons have evacuated that post and burnt the buildings and destroyed all their provisions. The policy of the Mormons does not, as it appears, contemplate open resistance. They will embarrass the troops and civil officers of the United States in entering their territory, and perhaps retire before them, laying waste all their settlements.

Moral Cowardice.—The journals in various parts of the country just now tell of numerous cases of young men committing 'suicide' 'not being able to get employment,' often leaving behind them a 'wife and children.' It is difficult to say exactly how much physical courage is requisite to cut one's throat or blow one's brains out, but nothing is hazarded in saying that all such suicides are the worst sort of moral cowards, and, as such, perhaps, they are as well out of the world.

☞The proprietor of the Columbian Hotel, Philadelphia, was made the victim of a sharp trick on Christmas. It appears that being desirous of supplying his guests with something superior in the poultry line, he purchased a turkey, the largest and heaviest to be had in the market, which was found to weigh some twenty-three pounds. Upon preparing the fowl for the table a discovery was made of sundry pieces of lead, weighing over four pounds, which had been inserted in the inside and the aperture dexterously closed up. The lead had been cut into small pieces of about one ounce each. As lead is from seven to eight cents cheaper than the present price of turkeys, the 'sharper' made something handsome, provided he sold a very large lot of leaden turkeys.

☞A fight occurred on Sunday evening at No. 82 Cannon street, New York, between Simmons and Richter, during which the latter lost his life. It appears that the two sons of the two men were engaged snowballing each other, when a quarrel ensued between them, and their parents interfered, and finally got to quarrelling and fighting among themselves. During the melee the wife of Simmons seized a club and with it struck Richter a heavy blow upon the temple, felling him lifeless to the floor. She was arrested, and also her husband.

Arabian Horses.—Six pure Arabian blood stallions have been brought to New York city by Capt. Lane, late of the combined American and English companies engaged in raising the sunken vessels of war in the harbor of Sebastopol. They are direct from the Czar's cavalry stables, and cost eighteen thousand dollars.

Gen. Cass on Kansas.—The Secretary of State sent a letter to the Philadelphia meeting on Monday night to endorse the administration. The General thinks the best solution of the Kansas difficulty, as it stands, is for Congress to pass a law for the conversion of the Territory into a State, and admit it into the Union under a constitution formed in pursuance of lawful authority, as prominently put forward in the President's Message.

Humorous Idea of Douglas' Speech.

A witty friend of ours heard the 'Little Giant' deliver his recent great speech in the U. S. Senate, and said that he put him in mind of a short-horned Durham, three years old, who had succeeded in making 'a break' into a strange field. The little fellow exhibited all the bovine threatenings of battle in the regular style. He 'pawed the ground and snuffed the air;' he tossed the dust over his back, and lashed himself into a fury; he kept up a fierce bellow, steady 'mugissant,' as the French express it.—Now he would move towards the fence and displace a loose rider or two with his stubbed horns, and anon he would wander erratic through the field, causing the welkin to resound to his mutterings. If an ox from the pasture he had left set up an emasculate roar, the little short-horn would paw with all the more energy, and move his head about minatory, until the subdued farm drudge became silent and chap-fallen.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27, 1857.—The Administration seems to be waking up to the fact that Douglas, single-handed, as he is, is a match for them with all the coercive power that Executive patronage gives them. He is, no doubt, assisted in the fight by having truth and justice on his side; but he possesses an indomitable will, courage and perseverance, that makes him a formidable foe in any contest. He belongs to that class of men who can never be bullied and intimidated by menace; soft words and a courteous manner are the most potential means of influence with men of this stamp. Some of his Presidential rivals want Douglas out of their way, and they are very happy in seizing on the present occasion to break down his authority as a leader. But they are mistaken. If he falls, Samson like, he will pull down the whole edifice with him. His expulsion from the party will rend the Democracy into two bitter and implacable factions, between whose strifes the opposition will easily slip into power.

"Lo! the poor Indian."

The Red Wing (Min.) Sentinel gives the following affecting instance of Indian sensibility:

In grading near the crossing of Broad and Main streets, the workmen have been obliged to trespass upon the old burying ground of the Indians who once had their village here, and not a few skulls and bones have been thrown up. Day before yesterday an Indian with his squaw and little boy happened to pass along just as the workmen struck an Indian mound. He stooped, and for a short time silently watched the men as they rudely cast its contents out of their way, but soon, overcome by his emotions, he commenced sobbing, and then sat down upon the ground, drew his little one to him, and wept like a child. The kind-hearted laborers, in pity for his feelings, gathered the bones they had thrown out, covered them in the mound again, and retired to another part of the work till he went away. It was indeed a sorrowful scene, and could not but affect those who witnessed it.

Christmas in Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The newspapers of Baltimore and Philadelphia present a long list of shocking occurrences on Christmas day. Thus, in the former city, there was a man shot on the highway; another man stabbed and likely to die; a man's throat cut by his wife; a man assaulted by two others and mortally stabbed; a man directly murdered at a drinking house; a wife attempting to murder her husband at a ball; and, lastly, an assault on a man and his wife with murderous intent. So much for the city of "brotherly love." In our neighbor, Baltimore, we find reported, on and about Christmas day, breaking in the doors and windows of a house; riot at a fair; shooting a young woman in sport; resisting officers in discharge of their duty: a man shot; burglary; shot in the arm; forcible entry into a house and abuse of the inmates; stealing a pocket book; cutting with a razor; rioting and fighting between two fire companies, in several affrays, two persons shot; riot on Federal Hill; in fine, more than three hundred arrests (says the Clipper) were made between Thursday evening and Friday night.

The Right Talk.

A straight-out writer gives the following advice to those young men who "depend on father" for their support, and take no interest whatever in business, but are regular drones in the hive, subsisting on that which is earned by others:

"Come, off with your coats, clinch the saw, the plow handle, the axe, the pick-axe, spade—anything that will enable you to stir your blood! Fly around and tear your jacket, rather than be passive recipients of the old man's bounty! Sooner than play the dandy at dad's expense, hire yourself out to some potato patch—let yourself to stop hog holes, or watch the bars; and when you think yourself entitled to a resting spell, do it on your own hook.—Get up in the morning—turn round at least twice before breakfast—help the old gentleman—give him now and then a generous lift in business—learn how to take the lead, and not depend forever on being led; and you have no idea how the discipline will benefit you. Do this, and our word for it, you will seem to breathe a new atmosphere, possess a new frame, tread a new earth, wake to a new destiny—and you may then begin to aspire to manhood. Take off, then, that ring from your little finger, break your cane, shave your upper lip, wipe your nose, hold up your head, and by all means never again eat the bread of idleness, nor depend on father."

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE.COM

☞The following poetical effusion is from the pen of our aged and venerable citizen, Capt. JOHN ADAIR, now in his eighty-fifth year. We give place to it, from respect to an old and warm friend of many years, and for the reason that it presents an epitome of the sufferings, death, resurrection, and ascension of that Saviour in whom he trusts; and although his lines have not the polish of the Parian marble, yet their truthful sentiment is the firm, substantial corner-stone, upon which his faith, as well as our's, is builded.

JESUS, how precious is thy name!
Although thou suffered scorn and shame,
Was set at nought by envious Jews,
Those in high life did thee refuse.

The Spirit power did possess,
And led him to the wilderness;
The Devil tempted him long and sore,
But he remained just as before;
All worlds he brought before his sight,
And all these now are mine by right,
These all I now will give to thee,
If thou fall down and worship me.
He said, "Get hence, thou evil one,
We worship GOD and Him alone."
Then to the pinnacle they went—
"If thou art he that God has sent,
Now cast thyself down here from hence,
His promise is thy sure defence;
If thou art God's beloved Son,
Thy foot thou can't dash 'gainst a stone"
Then Jesus answered in a word:
"Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God."

His ministry was now begun;
And, being God's eternal Son,
To preach the Gospel to the poor,
He traveled on from door to door.

In worldly wealth himself was poor,
And great privations did endure,
He had not where to lay his head,
But often on a cold, hard bed.
Five thousand with five loaves he fed,
He cast out devils, raised the dead;
But all the miracles he wrought,
They said, were all from Satan brought—
"With Beelzebub you are connected,
Your miracles are all rejected."

Then to Gothsemane they went,
Where a most dreadful night was spent;
His Father's wrath came like a flood,
Which made him sweat great drops of blood.

But the Jews' wrath could not be stayed,
Until to them he was betrayed;
By an unrighteous Judge was tried,
Where perjured witnesses multiplied.
At last came two, horrid to tell!
With all the malice found in hell,
And swore by God's most holy name,
They heard his only Son blaspheme.
The Judge condemned him then to death,
And on the cross give up his breath.

The mob then had him at their will,
Their cruel malice to fulfill;
His sacred head with thorns did crown,
And in mock majesty bowed down:
Hail now, thou great king of the Jews!
With [illegible] and stripes did him abuse.

Then Pilate's wife a message sent,
Which caused the Judge then to repent;
He endeavored then him to release,
But they chose a murderer in his place:
The Jews, permitted to make choice,
Cried, "crucify Him!" with one voice.

Then unto Calvary they went;
Bearing the cross, his strength was spent;
And lest they would not get him there,
Compelled a man his cross to bear,
With rugged nails his flesh they tore,
His suffering was both long and sore,
With nails they pierced his hands and feet,
And nailed him to the cross complete.
They raised him up that all might see,
And nailed him to the accursed tree;
The passers by did shake their head,
He saved others, raised the dead,
Come from the cross, thy life now save,
And on thee we will now believe.
The sun it could not bear the sight,
But veil'd its face, shut in its light,
And dismal darkness did prevail,
With thunder, earthquake, and great hail.
Of this sad tragedy we boast—
He bowed his head, gave up the ghost.
It drawing near to evening tide.
Then with a spear they pierced his side,
The blood and water then did flow,
Now he is dead, as well we know.
The captain of this wicked band
Said "sure this was a righteous man."

A wealthy man, of high renown,
He begged the body, took it down,
And then, prepared at his home,
He laid it in his own new tomb.
Fearing the body some would steal,
They set a watch, the stone did seal.

Now this sad tragedy must turn:
His friends they must no longer mourn.
On the third, the glorious day appointed,
Death could not hold the Lord's anointed,
He burst the bands of death, and rose,
Triumphing over all his foes.
When he had sanctified the tomb
For his followers as a home,
All principalities he spoiled,
The devil and his agents foiled.

Yet forty days he did remain,
Convincing them, he rose again;
And when instructions he had given
To those that were to work for heaven,
With his last blessing, as a friend,
"I will be with you to the end"
In a bright chariot he ascended,
Attended by the angels bright,
He entered heaven with pure delight.

As mediator he is crown'd,
To scatter blessings all around;
He hears our poor imperfect prayer,
And beautifies them to appear;
Them to his Father he presents,
And pardon grants to all repents.

☞The Victoria Falls on the river Zambesi, in South Africa, as described by Dr. Livingstone, are magnificent. The river is a thousand yards in breadth; it comes to a fissure eighty feet wide, and leaps one hundred feet into the abyss. It then rushes in a narrow channel among the hills. From the dense white cloud of spray which floats in the gulf spring five jets of vapor a height of between two hundred and three hundred feet.

Christianity now to be Propagated in India.

The virtual re-establishment of British supremacy in India, and the prospect of a reformed organization in all the departments of the British Eastern Empire, have naturally opened the sevings of religious as well as political agitation.

The Bishop of Oxford has delivered at Reading, Eng., a long lecture in support of foreign missions. With respect to India, he strongly denounced the sanctioning and maintenance by the British authority there of the native superstitions, affirming the true interpretation of the cause of England's recent disasters to be that "England has been false to England's faith, and timid of avowing England's God."

POPULATION OF LONDON.—At the last census, in 1855, London contained 2,362,236 souls, namely: 1,106,558 males and 1,155,678 females. The Register General computes the increase of population since 1855 at 60,000. The census was taken in one day, and among other facts enumerated it appears there were on the nights when it was taken 28,598 husbands whose wives were not with them, and 39,231 wives mourning their absent lords.

Last year the number of children born in London was 86,833, and in the same period 56,786 persons died. It is estimated that in that city 160 persons die daily, and a baby is born every five minutes. The number of families living in one room is estimated as high as 150,000, and in the parish of Kensington, in a place called the Potteries, there are 1,347 human beings and 1,041 pigs congregated within a space of nine acres. The dwellings of a large portion of the inhabitants of this locality are mere hovels, with shattered roofs and unglazed windows, the floor below the level of the external soil, and the walls at all times partially damp. Another portion of the miserable population have converted old carriage bodies, removed, in some cases from their wheels, into houses; others have no other dwellings than ruined post-chaise bodies, for which a rent of 6d a week is paid.

Notwithstanding the great number of the squalidly poor and the vicious contained within its borders, London is said to be one of the healthiest cities in the world. In 1856 the proportion of deaths was only 22 to 1000 of the population, and half of the deaths of adults which happen, occur from consumption and diseases of the respiratory organs.

Consumption Conquered!

HAVING profited by the experience of nineteen years, as nurse in the Pulmonary department in one of the principal Hospitals of the city of London, I rejoice in being able to offer a speedy and permanent cure for that most fatal of all diseases, CONSUMPTION.

I long ago became convinced that dragging the stomach, for effect upon the Lungs, was an absurdity; and, that the only way to reach them was, through INHALATION. Inhalation enters the lungs through the air passages, coming in direct contact with diseases, relieves pain, allays coughs, neutralizes and dissolves the tubercular matter, causing a free and easy expectoration, and rapidly healing the lungs, producing strength, cheerfulness and speedy recovery. I have affected many remarkable cures of the LUNGS and THROAT, and can safely assert that Consumptives may be restored to vigorous health, and frequently even when pronounced in the last stages.

That I have been successful in my experiments, I give the following extract from the London "Medical Advocate" as evidence: Mrs. Wilson, late principal nurse in the city Hospital, and discoverer and inventor of the CONSUMPTIVE INHALER—a discovery in the medical world of more value to mankind than all the gold mines of Australia and California—is about leaving England for America,—where her only son has made his home.—The many Consumptives restored to health by her valuable discovery, on this side of the Atlantic, will, we feel assured, ever remember her as their saviour in this world."

To enable all to obtain the INHALER, I have set its price at the extreme and low sum of Five Dollars; on the receipt of which, and address of the applicant, I will send it, with directions for use, per Mail or Express.

McREA'S CELEBRATED

LIQUID GLUE,

THE GREAT ADHESIVE.

MOST useful article ever invented, for house, store and office, surpassing in utility every other glue, gum, mucilage, paste or cement ever known, always ready for application, adhesive on paper, cloth, leather, furniture, porcelain, china, marble or glass.

For manufacturing Fancy Articles, Toys, etc., it has no superior, not only possessing greater strength than any other known article, but adheres more quickly, leaving no stain where the parts are joined. Never fails.

Within the last three years upwards of 250,000 bottles of this justly celebrated LIQUID GLUE have been sold, and the great convenience which it has proved in every case, has deservedly secured for it a demand which the manufacturer has found it, at times, difficult to meet; acknowledged by all who have used it, that its merits are far above any similar article or imitation ever offered to the public.

☞This GLUE is extensively counterfeited—observe the label "McRea's Liquid Glue, the Great Adhesive." Take no other.

American Safety-Paper Manufacturing Company of New York

CAPITAL, $500,000.

A. Nicholas, President. Office, 70 Wall St.

A Perfect Security against all manner of Fraud or Counterfeiting on Paper—To Prevent Photographs and Anastatic Counterfeits, Erasures, Transfers or Alterations.

HAVING purchased the Patent for the exclusive right to manufacture and sell the new Chemical Paper in America, invented and patented in England by HENRY GLYNN, a celebrated chemist and officer in the British army, it is hardly necessary to say that the Paper is recommended by Mr. Kent, Assayer of the U. S. Mint, Mr. Layman of the New York Clearing House, and Meade Brothers, extensive and skilful photographers, 233 Broadway, N. Y. The latter say that no imitation can be made on a check or bank note printed on the Safety Paper. Below is our list of prices:

Bank Checks—35 cts. per lb.
Bank Bills—$18 for 1000 sheets.
Bills of Exchange—$25 for 1000 sheets.
Promissory Notes—40 cts. per lb.
Sight and Time Drafts—$25 for 1000 sheets.
Insurance Policies—40 cts per lb.
Railroad Stocks & Bonds—40 cts. per lb.
Bank and State Stocks—40 cts. per lb.
Bonds and Mortages—40 cts per lb.
Wills and Deeds—40 cts. per lb.

For wrapping Silks and other fine articles it is excellent, as it prevents moths. 40 cts. a lb.

For Indentures and Agreements. 40 cts. per lb.

All State and County Records should always be printed or written on this Paper, as the chemicals inserted in the pulp not only prevent erasure or transfer, but make it lasting as time.

For Southern Climates it is excellent, and much superior to any other; as the moistness of the climate does not destroy it,—the properties inserted in the pulp being a preventive. In all the Southern States, Cuba, the West Indies and the Central American States, no public records can be kept over 20 years, written on the ordinary paper, while the oil and other chemicals inserted in this Paper makes it indestructible by the ravages of time. It is also proof against moths, rats and other vermin, which feast and destroy all other paper now in use.

The Company have now in operation Mills in Morris county, N. J., of about 300 horse power, and are able to fill all orders for Paper at the shortest notice.

All orders for the Paper must be addressed to A. NICHOLAS, President of the Company, No. 70 Wall Street.

☞Any orders left with the Editor of the "SENTINEL," will be promptly forwarded.
